

Sheep don't bring their owners grass to prove to them how much they've eaten. They digest it inwardly and outwardly bring forth milk and wool.

So don't make a show of your philosophical learning to the uninitiated. Show them by your actions what you have absorbed.

Epictetus

55 AD - 135 AD