

Companies hoping to recruit the best and the brightest must demonstrate that they trust their employees with the freedom to work anywhere.

They must assume that they are buying talent and dedication, not what the Brazilians call “butt-on-chair” time.

Ricardo Semler
1959 -