

That's not to say that people are always thrilled to try something new or difficult, but mature or experienced workers understand and know that once they get involved, they enjoy the challenge and the opportunity for growth.

Ricardo Semler

1959 -