

In the domain of psychological types, our attitude is our way of negotiating the inevitable gap between self-determination and the expectations of others.

Lenore Thomson