

Why isn't remaining about the same in size and perfecting what we do more advantageous than hiring new people that we do not know, opening new plants that will have a long learning curve and losing sight of what we've already learned to do best?

Ricardo Semler
1959 -