The most valuable result of twenty percent time isn't the products and features that get created.

It's the things that people learn when they try something new.

Eric Schmidt
1955 -